DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2, 5-8 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by SU 6,269,072.

The reference discloses a recording medium formed of a substrate, recording layer, adhesive layer, and a resin film (protective layer) where the resin film is formed of a uv-curable resin which is formed as a sheet and then applied onto the medium via a uv-curable adhesive. See col. 10.

Claims 1, 2, 5-8 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US 2004/0042379.

The reference discloses a recording medium formed of a substrate, recording layer, adhesive layer, and a cover layer (protective layer) where the cover layer is formed of a uv-curable resin which is formed as a sheet and then applied onto the medium via a uv-curable adhesive. See [0068].

Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US 6,667,952.

The reference discloses a recording medium comprising a substrate, a recording layer, a uv-curable adhesive layer, and a light-transmitting layer (protective layer). The light-transmitting layer is formed of more than one layer (inner layer corresponding to the primer layer) and may be formed of the claimed resin materials. Also, the layer may be preformed into a sheet and attached to the medium via the adhesive. See col. 8-10.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3, 4, 9, and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 6,269,072 or 2004/0042379 in view of US 6,667,952.

It is recognized that neither of the reference discussed above ('072 or '379) disclose a primer layer between the adhesive layer and the protective layer. However, US 6,667,952 discloses that it is known to form the protective layer from more than one layer where the inner layer corresponds to the claimed primer layer, i.e., they are formed of the same materials. The use of more than one layer reduces the limitations of materials that can be utilized for the outer layer. See col. 8-10.

Claims 3, 4, 9, and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 6,269,072 or 2004/0042379 in view of 4,731,620.

It is recognized that neither of the reference discussed above ('072 or '379) disclose a primer layer between the adhesive layer and the protective layer. However, US 4,731,620 shows that it is known to include a primer layer between an adhesive and adhering surface in an optical recording medium. See col. 10. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the primer to improve the adhesion.
